The Institution has facilities and initiatives for Disabled-friendly, barrier free environment

The Ramps are built through the campus where uneven floor levels or kerbs are present to provide convenience and prevent tripping accidents. Ramps are helpful to push a pallet truck, trolley, or wheel chair over a kerb or step by negotiating just a few inches of height difference. Utility ramps solve the problem and make wheeled movement between levels very easy.

Library has the non-visual access software for visually impaired students

NVDA (Nonvisual Desktop Access) is a free "screen reader" and open access software which enables blind and vision impaired people to independently use the Windows Operating system.

Major features

- It reads the text on the screen in a computerized voice.
- It can control what is read to you by moving the cursor to the relevant area of text with a mouse or the arrows on your keyboard.
- NVDA can also convert the text into braille if the computer user owns a device called a "braille display".
